

ON GOING PROJECTS WITH WORLD BANK ASSISTANCE

The World Bank is one of the major external funding agencies supplementing the efforts of Government of India in implementing water supply and sewerage projects in various states/ULBs for quite long time. The policies of Government of India and the World Bank towards the urban water sector are not much different and both policies aim to achieve maximum coverage and sustainability of the water supply services. The Government of India has facilitated funding from World Bank for implementing water supply and sanitation projects in many states/ULBs in the past. The statement showing list of ongoing projects is under.
